Rationale and Definition

The Relationships and Sex Education and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019 made under sections 34 and 35 of the Children Act 2017, make Relationships Education compulsory for all pupils receiving primary education. Primary schools are not required to teach Sex Education as a standalone subject but must by law teach the elements contained in the Science curriculum. Parents do not have the right to withdraw children from those elements covered within the Science curriculum or from Relationships and Health education. Independent schools are not obliged to follow the National Curriculum but at King's House School, we have chosen to use it as a basis for the education we provide. The statutory requirements to provide Health Education also do not apply to Independent Schools. Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education continues to be compulsory in independent schools as set out in the Education (Independent School Standards) Regulations 2014. We will use the principles in the DfE guidance on Health Education in our curriculum planning.

The statutory guidance issued in 2019 has been used to support writing this policy and the planning and implementation of our curriculum.

Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education, \(RSE\) and Health Education

“Today’s children and young people are growing up in an increasingly complex world and living their lives seamlessly on and offline. This presents many positive and exciting opportunities, but also challenges and risks. In this environment, children and young people need to know how to be safe and healthy, and how to manage their academic, personal and social lives in a positive way.” DfE 2019

At KHS we believe our RHE education will stay with our pupils for life. It will provide pupils with the knowledge, skills and confidence to make safe, healthy and informed relationship choices as young people and support them in the future as adults. We are committed to the vital role that RHE plays in pupils’ holistic education.

We focus on teaching the fundamental building blocks of healthy, respectful relationships, focusing on family and friendships in all contexts, including online. Alongside this will be an essential understanding of how to be healthy, including mental well-being. Our subject content will give children the knowledge and capability to support them in facing increasing challenges and risks, taking care of themselves and in seeking and receiving support. We are choosing to teach the compulsory content within the wider programme of Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education, utilising mainly the programme of study provided by the PHSE Association. Some content for RHE will also arise in other curriculum areas such as Science, Computing and PE although will not be directly duplicated.

We understand the sensitive nature of some of these subject areas and the fact that parents and carers are the prime educators for children on many of these matters. Our provision will complement and reinforce this role, building on what our pupils learn at home.

Aims and Objectives

At KHS our RHE programme seeks to:

- Ensure there is progression in delivery through the year groups.
- Be age appropriate and differentiated to the needs of the pupils including SEN.
- Present information in an objective, balanced and sensitive manner.
- Encourage the development of social skills and strategies which will reduce the risk of exploitation, misunderstanding and abuse.
- Help pupils develop feelings of self-respect, confidence and empathy.
- Develop a clear understanding of consent; how to give withdraw, ask for and recognize consent.
- Reinforce the importance of loving relationships, rooted in mutual respect.
- Ensure pupils can identify the qualities of healthy and unhealthy relationships.
- Begin to prepare pupils for the journey into adolescence and adulthood.
- Provide pupils with a safe environment to reinforce mutual respect and tackle misconceptions and stereotypes.
- Place importance on online safety and the risks involved in the use of social media.
- Begin to prepare pupils for puberty, including the importance of health and hygiene.

Legal Requirements

- From September 2020 the DfE guidance document “Relationships Education, Relationships and Sex Education (RSE) and Health Education: Statutory guidance for governing bodies, proprietors, head teachers, principals, senior leadership teams, teachers” became statutory.

- Following the impact of Covid-19 coronavirus on education delivery and school closures, schools that were not yet prepared could delay delivery of the new curriculum until Summer Term 2021. “Schools Coronavirus (Covid-19) Operational Guidance February 2021” then required primary schools to provide some Relationships and Health Education in the 2020-2021 academic year, with the more comprehensive programme to be delivered from September 2021.
- Under the provisions of the Equality Act 2010, schools must not unlawfully discriminate against pupils because of their age, sex, race, disability, religion or belief, gender reassignment, pregnancy or maternity, marriage or civil partnership, or sexual orientation (collectively known as the ‘protected characteristics’)

Curriculum Content

Our curriculum content will cover the required themes set out in the 2019 DfE statutory guidance. See Appendix 2 of this document for our programme of study in each year group. We are choosing to teach the compulsory content within the wider programme of Personal, Social, Health and Economic Education, utilising mainly the programme of study provided by the PHSE Association.

RHE curriculum for SEND pupils

As with all curriculum subjects, teachers will differentiate for pupils with SEND and those who are vulnerable. This may mean differentiated work or alternative delivery depending on the nature of the need and/ or personal/ family circumstances. The SEN co-ordinator, teacher and Headteacher will formulate and review any such plans as appropriate and discuss with parents.

Sensitive or controversial topics

- During RHE lessons (and at other times) sensitive or controversial topics may arise. The judgement of individual tutors will decide as to whether the topic raised is suitable for whole class discussion. Where the topic may be judged to be too explicit, the teacher will acknowledge it and deal with it outside the whole class setting, seeking advice from senior staff where required.
- Teachers will try to answer pupils’ questions honestly, sensitively and in such a way that takes the context into account. In all circumstances, the professional judgement of the teacher will prevail.
- Teachers will be responsible for the setting of any ground rules so that children are aware of the parameters.
- Pupils should not be asked to disclose personal information about themselves or others.
- Teachers and pupils will show respect for all genders and types of families.
- Any safeguarding issues that arise will be followed up under the school’s safeguarding procedures, including discussion with the Designated Safeguarding Lead or Deputy.

Organisation and Delivery

- Our RHE curriculum is an integral part of the whole school PSHE education provision and is delivered each term as per the programme of study outlined in Appendix 2 of this policy.
- The planning takes on a 'spiral' approach, which gradually revisits and re-introduces topics at a deeper and more complex level in each year group.
- RHE will be delivered by a teacher during a weekly session and will be taught through a range of teaching methods and activities.
- A weekly whole school PSHE assembly takes place.
- At the start of each topic, informal baseline assessment will allow the teacher to differentiate the programme for the class group and for any identified SEND or vulnerable pupils. Pupils will be encouraged to reflect on their own learning and progress at the end of each topic.
- Topics may be revisited by the teacher to allow for previous absence and different levels of understanding, maturity and learning abilities.
- The school will work with any external specialist organisations and professionals as required to ensure our curriculum and delivery reflect current best practices.

Working with Parents

- This policy and our curriculum have been devised and will be implemented in consultation with parents.
- Parental support is integral to the success of the curriculum. While we have an educational and legal obligation to provide children with Relationships and Health Education, we respect the primary carer role of parents in educating their children in these matters.
- The curriculum overview (Appendix 2) will be shared with parents as will any future revisions.
- Any parental feedback will be directed to the Deputy Head. As key to maintaining effective relationships with our parent body, all views will be listened to.
- Parents are welcome to explore our curriculum by requesting further detail.

Right to Withdraw

- Parents do not have the right to withdraw their child from Relationships or Health Education.
- Parents do not have the right to withdraw their child from the elements of sex education covered by the Science National Curriculum.

Confidentiality

- Effective RHE should enable and encourage children to talk to a trusted adult about any matters they may be concerned about. It is usually but not always possible that that person should be their parent or carer.
- Where a matter raised gives rise to a safeguarding concern, this should be addressed in line with the school safeguarding policy and procedures, including discussion with the Designated Safeguarding Lead. A child raising a matter that may be of a safeguarding concern should be advised that confidentiality cannot be guaranteed.

Role of external (Health) professionals

The school will work with any health professionals as required in the development and implementation of the school Relationships and Health Education. Any visitors used to help in the delivery of our programme of study will be clear about the boundaries of their input and their work will be planned and agreed in advance.

Monitoring and Evaluation

- The implementation of this policy and the delivery of the programme of study will be monitored and evaluated through the normal processes of review that apply to all other areas of our curriculum. This may be via planning scrutinies, lesson observations, learning walks, discussions with teachers pupils, and responding to the needs of individual pupils.
- Parental feedback will be directed to the Headteacher who will consult teaching staff where required before responses are made.
- Pupils development in RHE will be monitored by teachers via our internal assessment systems.
- The policy and programme of study will be updated in accordance with any changes in legislation and in line with any updates by the Independent Schools Standards Regulations.

Statutory Curriculum Content

By the end of primary school:

Families and people who care for me	Pupils should know: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• that families are important for children growing up because they can give love, security and stability• the characteristics of healthy family life, commitment to each other, including in times of difficulty, protection and care for children and other family members, the importance of spending time together and sharing each other's lives• that others' families, either in school or in the wider world, sometimes look different from their family, but that they should respect those differences and know that other children's families are also characterised by love and care• that stable, caring relationships, which may be of different types, are at the heart of happy families, and are important for children's security as they grow up• that marriage represents a formal and legally recognised commitment of two people to each other which is intended to be lifelong• how to recognise if family relationships are making them feel unhappy or unsafe, and how to seek help or advice from others if needed
Caring Friendships	Pupils should know: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• how important friendships are in making us feel happy and secure, and how people choose and make friends• the characteristics of friendships, including mutual respect, truthfulness, trustworthiness, loyalty, kindness, generosity, trust, sharing interests and experiences and support with problems and difficulties• that healthy friendships are positive and welcoming towards others, and do not make others feel lonely or excluded• that most friendships have ups and downs, and that these can often be worked through so that the friendship is repaired or even strengthened, and that resorting to violence is never right• how to recognise who to trust and who not to trust, how to judge when a friendship is making them feel unhappy or uncomfortable, managing conflict, how to manage these situations and how to seek help or advice from others, if needed

Respectful Relationships	Pupils should know: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the importance of respecting others, even when they are very different from them (for example, physically, in character, personality or backgrounds), or make different choices or have different preferences or beliefs • practical steps they can take in a range of different contexts to improve or support respectful relationships • the conventions of courtesy and manners • the importance of self-respect and how this links to their own happiness • that in school and in wider society they can expect to be treated with respect by others, and that in turn they should show due respect to others, including those in positions of authority • about different types of bullying (including cyberbullying), the impact of bullying, responsibilities of bystanders (primarily reporting bullying to an adult) and how to get help • what a stereotype is, and how stereotypes can be unfair, negative or destructive the importance of permission-seeking and giving in relationships with friends, peers and adults
Online Relationships	Pupils should know: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • that people sometimes behave differently online, including by pretending to be someone they are not • that the same principles apply to online relationships as to face-to-face relationships, including the importance of respect for others online including when we are anonymous • the rules and principles for keeping safe online, how to recognise risks, harmful content and contact, and how to report them • how to critically consider their online friendships and sources of information including awareness of the risks associated with people they have never met • how information and data is shared and used online

Being Safe

Pupils should know:

- what sorts of boundaries are appropriate in friendships with peers and others (including in a digital context)
- about the concept of privacy and the implications of it for both children and adults; including that it is not always right to keep secrets if they relate to being safe
- that each person's body belongs to them, and the differences between appropriate and inappropriate or unsafe physical, and other, contact
- how to respond safely and appropriately to adults they may encounter (in all contexts, including online) whom they do not know
- how to recognise and report feelings of being unsafe or feeling bad about any adult
- how to ask for advice or help for themselves or others, and to keep trying until they are heard,
- how to report concerns or abuse, and the vocabulary and confidence needed to do so
- where to get advice, for example family, school or other sources
